Springbrook is the leader in providing innovative support for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. With locations across New York State, we offer service options that span all aspects of a person's life.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

Within our community, we are given any number of possibilities to foster independence and promote personal growth within ourselves, our loved ones, and our friends. What matters most in any community is our ability to set aside differences and nurture a sense of belonging. One person who took this mantra of community to heart was my dear friend, State Senator Jim Seward. Jim deeply loved his family, community, and district, but his reach went beyond that. He supported Springbrook when it was needed most and was crucial to the foundation of some of our programs. He was a leader whose vision of a unified New York, a New York where people from across political spectrums work together to better the lives of every person, continues to inspire us.

Tom Golisano is another example of someone who leads and inspires in their day-to-day interactions with the people around them and through their philanthropic work. Including a time, he promised to match donations given to Springbrook, which encouraged others to do the same. Tom helped complete the beautiful main campus and the Golisano School for Autism at The School at Springbrook. Springbrook is very grateful for his work, the work of Jim Seward, and people like them.

Leadership is not confined to senators or philanthropists. It is present in the everyday leadership of people working at Springbrook and in the local community. The frontline staff, including direct support professionals, teachers, and assistants, at Springbrook are exemplary leaders. They demonstrate leadership every day by ensuring that the people they support have every chance to integrate with their local community through vocational training and employment, residency, and attending events.

Our goal is to create a community of inclusion where everyone feels valued, respected, and supported. And we have a strong foundation laid beneath us and outstanding leaders before us to help make this vision a reality.

UNVEILING THE FORD ON MAIN

Written by: Desiree Simpson

Springbrook celebrated a significant milestone with the successful unveiling of The Ford on Main, a transformative mixed-use development in downtown Oneonta. The event, held on May 30th, 2024, brought together community members, local dignitaries, and notable speakers, including Congressman Marc Molinaro, U.S. representative for New York's 19th congressional district, from whom they received a Congressional Proclamation in recognition of the ribbon cutting.

Springbrook also received a citation from Brian Miller, member of the New York State Assembly, 122nd Assembly District, on behalf of the New York State Assembly to commemorate this momentous occasion on the grand opening of The Ford on Main.

The afternoon was kicked off with a VIP reception in the lobby of The Ford on Main, featuring private tours, cocktails, and hors d'oeuvres. The reception was sponsored by Air Temp and catered by Social Eats. Attendees were treated to music, enriching conversations, and a preview of the innovative residential spaces within the historic building. After the VIP reception, a ribbon-cutting ceremony took place at Muller Plaza. Congressman Marc Molinaro, alongside Springbrook's leadership, highlighted the project's importance in addressing Oneonta's housing needs, expanding job opportunities and employment through local employers and the Employment Hub, and preserving the city's historic character.

New York Secretary of State Walter T. Mosley provided a statement saying, "Governor Hochul has established housing affordability and diversity as key components of downtown revitalization and economic development in New York State. The Ford on Main project is an excellent example of the transformative role that the Downtown Revitalization Initiative plays in creating vibrant, sustainable, and equitable communities, both here in Oneonta and throughout the State. We congratulate Springbrook and the City for this remarkable addition to their burgeoning downtown."

The Ford on Main project received $885,000 from the Downtown Improvement Fund as part of the DRI. The City of Oneonta was named a Downtown Revitalization Initiative (DRI) round 1 winner in 2016. The Downtown Improvement Fund made 52 awards that funded façade improvements and added 24 housing units to the downtown. Other projects awarded DRI funding include the Dietz Street Lofts, the Market Street Transportation Improvements Project, and the City of Oneonta Branding and Marketing Campaign.

The event included a kids' zone, a beverage garden featuring Brewery Ommegang, and guided tours for the public of the newly renovated building. Guests enjoyed tastings available in the third-floor apartments from a variety of local restaurants, including the Autumn Cafe, Bella Michael's, B Side, Latte Lounge (which announced the expansion of their storefront at the event), Vésucré, and Wise Guys Sammy's, adding a culinary delight to the celebration. Springbrook wishes to extend its heartfelt gratitude to the sponsors who made this event possible: Key Bank, Community Preservation Corporation, OneGroup, Townsquare Media, and Air Temp. Their generous support underscores the community's commitment to fostering development and enhancing the quality of life in Oneonta.

"The Ford on Main is more than a building; it's a community hub that will serve as a catalyst for future growth and prosperity in Oneonta," said Patricia Kennedy, CEO of Springbrook, who is excited about the renewed vibrancy that housing and employment will create downtown.

THE SCHOOL AT SPRINGBROOK

Charlie's Recycling Challenge

Written by: Lila Ingersoll Charlie, a 15-year-old student at The School at Springbrook, initiated a recycling program through the Nextrex recycling challenge program. He had the assistance of Physical Therapist Faye Huntington and Teacher Jessica Elliot. NexTrex containers have been strategically placed at various locations, including the Kids Unlimited Preschool, The School at Springbrook, and the Capstone Day Habilitation Center at the Oneonta Campus. New collection bins have been added to the White Building and The Family Engagement

Center on the Main Campus, further expanding the reach of this initiative. The goal is to reach 1,000 pounds of plastic, which will be recycled into a bench. After learning about the program in a local newspaper, Charlie organized the initiative and has used this opportunity to work on his communication skills by drafting letters and emails to local retail shops and businesses in Otsego County.

ACE Hardware has collaborated with Charlie to recycle their plastic, and a new collaborative effort is underway with a local Dollar General. After Charlie arranges for plastic collection and pick-up it is brought to the Otsego ReUse Center on Duane Street in Oneonta, New York. There, Charlie records the weight of the bags and takes pictures of the collection, which he later uploads to NexTrex.

The NexTrex Recycling Challenge Program sponsors the program, which encourages private and public institutions to recycle their plastics. Every participating entity chooses a 12-month collection time frame to collect a minimum of 1,000 pounds. Recyclable plastics can include pallet wrap and stretch film, grocery bags, bread bags, case overwrap, dry cleaning bags, newspaper sleeves, Ziploc and other resealable food storage bags, produce bags, product wrap, retail bags, air pillows, bubble wrap, plastic shipping envelopes, electronic wrap, and more.

Great Job, Charlie!

With the help of local businesses and Springbrook, Charlie has collected of plastic since November 2023. He is ever closer to the 1,000-pound goal!

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Written by: Desiree Simpson

Springbrook Scorpions

Donor-funded programs like Springbrook Scorpions and Sprouts offer people the opportunity to get outside the classroom or their home and engage with the community, make friends, and try something new. Special Olympics programming is open to anyone eight years of age and older and has been identified by an agency or professional as having a developmental disability. It includes basketball, soccer, and track and field, in which athletes can compete in individual skills or join a competitive team.

"Playing sports with the Springbrook Scorpions has brought a lot of joy into my life. I love socializing and competing, so it's been a lot of fun!"

- Kim, Special Olympics Basketball Player

While practice takes place at The School at Springbrook gym, athletes travel with their team to local games, state and national championships, and tournaments across NYS. In 2018, teams attended the USA Games in Seattle.

This past Spring, Springbrook hosted the 9th Annual Special Olympics Basketball Invitational. The event welcomed teams from across New York State, including the Saratoga Wildcats, Broome Tioga, Pathfinder Village, Onondaga Wildcats, Onondaga Cougars, Onondaga Mosquitoes, Phoenix Fire Skills Team, Springbrook Team Orange, Springbrook Team Black, and Springbrook Skills Team. The tournament was a huge success and enjoyed by all.

Sprouts Program

The Springbrook Sprouts program is a Special Olympics program for young athletes ages 2-7 that take place from mid-April to early mid-May. This integrated program lets children with and without disabilities participate and introduces basic sports skills like running, kicking, and throwing. Sprouts Coach Deb France says, "I am always amazed to see the growth that occurs over six weeks. In the first week, the kids are shy and do not leave their parents' side. By the last week, their skills and confidence have grown tremendously, and they are working together as a team with their new friends." Jessica Elliot, the mother of a recent Sprouts participant, witnessed the program's positive changes on her daughter. She shared,

"My daughter learned new skills and had the opportunity to meet and interact with other kids. I watched as she grew significantly in her gross motor and social skills development throughout the six-week session."

This fully donor-funded program is a testament to community members' commitment to bringing local children together. Your support is invaluable in making programs like Sprouts possible.

SELF-DIRECTED SERVICES

Springbrook Partners with Commonspace Apartments to Provide New Supported Housing Initiative

Written by: Lila Ingessoll

Exciting developments are on the horizon as Springbrook continues its mission to provide certified supported housing for people who choose self-directed services (SDS), housing navigation services (HNS), or are self-directed. In July, Springbrook welcomed future residents Dan and Matthew into the new Commonspace Apartments in Syracuse, New York. This innovative, urban living complex offers comfortable apartment spaces and emphasizes community and connection with shared amenities such as a reading room and lending library, a sun lounge, a gaming space, and more. Residents can engage with each other

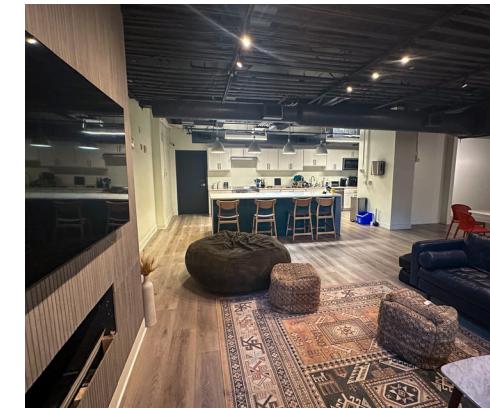

"Springbrook is continuously striving to meet the needs of the people who choose Self-Directed Services and housing navigation services. The Commonspace Apartments is a perfect example of this commitment. We are eager to see how this new living arrangement will positively impact the lives of these residents." - Hank Lobb through monthly mixers, shared Slack groups, and other community activities.

The Commonspace Apartments' approach to housing aligns with what Springbrook envisions for the future of housing for people with developmental disabilities. Director of Community Innovation Hank Lobb and Supportive Housing Program Manager Cassandra Jackson, both Springbrook employees, have been instrumental in establishing the partnership with Commonspace. "When I started [in August 2023], it became immediately clear that there was a significant need for certified supportive housing," said Cassandra. "I am passionate about creating these new housing opportunities and ensuring that people with intellectual and developmental disabilities can transition from Community Homes to independent living environments."

Dan and Matthew will move into the Commonspace Apartments and are excited to settle into their new living arrangements. Dan shared that he enjoyed moving his stuff in and decorating his room, while Matthew is looking forward to making new friends and trying new things. Both share the goal of one day getting their own apartment, but until then, Matthew and Dan look forward to welcoming a third roommate. Aside from the support they receive, Springbrook House Manager Kay Singh will be on-site at Commonspace to provide additional support when and where residents might need it and to ensure the environment continues to promote independence and social engagement.

Stay tuned for more updates on this groundbreaking project, and join us in celebrating new beginnings at Commonspace Apartments!

Supported Housing

In partnership with Regan Development Corporation, Springbrook will open Cortlandville Commons in Cortland, New York. This early housing initiative began in October 2023, when the New York State Office for People with Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD) selected Springbrook as the housing support provider for the development.

The four-story building will provide affordable, residential multifamily housing targeting a mix of household's representative of the local community and workforce. It will offer integrated supported housing (mobility-adapted units) for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD). Opportunities for the people residing at Cortlandville Commons will include community integration, independence, and maximum potential for self-direction and choice, some of which may be facilitated by Springbrook's integrated service options. According to Springbrook's Director of Community Services, Kimberly Corbett, Cortlandville Commons was envisioned as "more than a building—we anticipate it will be a beacon of hope with just the right touch of services for people who have previously been underserved in the I/DD space." Springbrook hopes to break ground on this project in 2025.

SELF-DIRECTED SERVICES

Written by: Tristan Pokorny

Celebrating 10 years OF SDS AT SPRINGBROOK

Self-Directed Services (SDS) is a unique opportunity that allows for greater autonomy and personalized support for people with developmental disabilities. At its core, SDS is about putting control back in the hands of the people receiving services, allowing them to craft their support with the guidance of Springbrook staff.

Traditionally, people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) often rely on agencies to provide a set range of services. These agencies make decisions regarding the type of support offered and the staff involved. With self-directed services, the person with I/DD is in the driver's seat, making crucial decisions about the support they receive. This includes choosing their staff, setting schedules, and determining how their budget is allocated. The goal is to foster independence and ensure that the support provided is directly aligned with personal goals and preferences. Springbrook's SDS program serves over 934 people with I/DD and employs over 750 dedicated staff to support them. Our staff consists of direct support professionals, administration, FI coordinators, support brokers, program analysts, and directors.

A feature of Springbrook's SDS program is its Startup Navigator, a role uniquely filled by Erin Palmer. The Startup Navigator role is designed to simplify the often complex and overwhelming process of beginning self-direction. It ensures a smooth and consistent starting process for people entering self-directed services. Unlike other programs, Springbrook offers a standardized approach to onboarding, with Erin providing comprehensive support for the person receiving the services and their families until they are fully comfortable and knowledgeable about their services and budget.

Erin Palmer's involvement ensures that every person receives consistent information and guidance, tailored to their specific needs. This role is exclusive to Springbrook, setting it apart from other agencies that may not offer such dedicated, personalized support at the start.

"I like working at Springbrook because the work we do is meaningful and valuable to the people we serve. To me, it's not work when you love doing something that brings joy to others. I love being able to interact with the families and individuals and seeing how happy they are when they are finally able to," said Erin.

Self-directed services represent a significant advancement in support, offering people the opportunity to direct their own lives with confidence and autonomy. Springbrook's dedication, supported by a large team and unique services like the Startup Navigator, underscores its commitment to fostering independence and providing high-quality, personalized support. As Springbrook continues to grow and adapt its services, it remains true to its mission to empower people with intellectual and developmental disabilities, providing each person with the tools and support they need to thrive on their own terms.

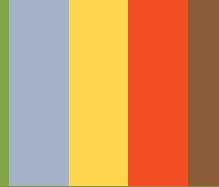

Casia's Decade of Achievement

WITH EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

In January, Springbrook celebrated a decade of employment services, a program within self-directed services for people with disabilities. This milestone was marked with Casia, the first person to enroll in employment services at Springbrook. Casia started her journey at fifteen at The School at Springbrook and joined employment services in January 2014 after graduation. Today, she thrives at McDonald's, working diligently two to three days a week. Casia takes pride in maintaining the lobby and dining area, describing her job as where she "grew up." She enjoys a positive rapport with her manager, John, who values her customer service skills. Congratulations, Casia, on reaching this achievement with Employment Services.

Over 75 family members and friends of Tommy Needham gathered at the Inman Sports Complex in Edison, NJ, to watch the showdown between Team Rugged and Team Penguins in the Cody Classic Hockey Tournament. Team Rugged took the trophy this year, beating the Penguins 6 to 3. Needham organized the tournament in honor of his cousin, Cody Meyers, who passed away from a rare kidney disease in early January 2023. He is passionate about fundraising for disability services, including Parents of Blind Children of New York State, which he became involved with after his own vision loss in 2003. He learned about Springbrook after connecting with his neighbor, Dana Jackson, whose son, Aidan, receives Springbrook services.

Currently, JR and Hannah are volunteering at the SPCA, assisting with various tasks, including cleaning the "cat condos" and litter boxes, sweeping and mopping floors, folding laundry, and taking out the garbage. JR and Hannah enjoy being around the animals and are eager to continue learning with Tyrone through the pre-vocational training.

IN Loving MEMORY

At Springbrook, employees take immense time and pride in getting to know the people they support to provide the best care at every stage of their lives. We treasure every moment we have shared with those who recently passed, from laughter to tears, outings, celebrations, and milestones. In this section, we commemorate the people we have lost and take a moment to remember the impact each has made on us and those around them. We are honored that they have shared their lives with us and will forever keep the memory of them in our hearts.

Joyce Reynolds passed away at 77 at Pine Creek Community Home. At Pine Creek, Joyce enjoyed the outdoors and the flowers in the garden, especially with Baby at her side. Baby was Joyce's favorite doll and companion—everyone knew Baby. When Joyce traveled, which she loved to do, Baby would be with her to experience everything Joyce did, even to Niagara Falls, where she enjoyed a ride on the boat, Maid of the Mist. Joyce got a thrill from riding in the van on frequent trips around town, to go shopping, dine out or eat lunch in the park, and have ice cream. When Joyce was at home, she would sit and color, flip through her favorite magazines, watch a film, or sing and dance with Baby.

Joyce will be missed for the tremendous love and light she shared with those around her.
